Re: Reference for Red Squirrel Architects Ltd

To Whom It May Concern:

I have worked with Miles and Red Squirrel Architects Ltd on various projects over the years, notably the renovation and redesign of my Victorian terraced house.

It's now been three years since the refurb and Miles' design has stood the test of time, both in terms of form and function. Thanks to some clever thinking at the design stage I have natural light in almost every space in the house, difficult to achieve in a terraced property. Miles paid particular attention to the movement plan, and I am happy to report that living, eating, sleeping and entertaining are a breeze. Heat retention in the property is much higher than before thanks to all the nifty insulation - to put this in perspective it used to take 2 days to warm the 'old' property. It now takes around 15 minutes!

Red Squirrel Architects helped deal with the Party Wall and planning issues, and the building stage of the work also ran incredibly smoothly.
